About

Throughout our design process, we've always imagine a school with a human face, flexible in its plan and organization. A school must always be evolving. The quality of a school is based on its ability to be flexible and to answer to constantly fluctuating requirements... Prior any other concern, we've tried to brought the right architectural answer, in line with its context, its program and its budget.

The image offered here, is miles away from an architectural monument, but create a simple place for living, meeting and teaching.
