A Belgian film in cinemas: Let's meet Yves Weinand - Mister Emma

The Close-Up festival is part of an exploratory, educational, fun and civic approach. Close-Up is a territorial project (Paris and the Île-de-France) and one that opens up to the world (international selection). It aims to bring together the viewpoints of filmmakers, city stakeholders and the public to improve urban education, increase architectural awareness and ask questions about our own urban future.

The programme is demanding and concerned with diversity and shared pleasure. It is structured around themed focuses, special screenings, previews and the presence of a number of guests from the world of cinema and the city to accompany the films and share them with as many people as possible.
